

SUMMER STUDY ABROAD SCHOLARSHIPS AND FINANCIAL AID

General Information on Financial Aid and Scholarships for Summer Study Abroad

Emory Summer Programs: All Emory undergraduate students who qualify are considered by the Office of Financial Aid for a summer aid award after registration in Emory summer study abroad courses. The amount of the award, which is a percentage of tuition costs, depends on the number of credit hours and current financial aid package. Students currently receiving financial aid from Emory are typically eligible.

Types of Financial Aid

Grants and Scholarships: Usually provide funding that does not need to be repaid, based on talent, financial need, or affiliation. Types of aid include Emory University Grant, Georgia Tuition Equalization Grant, HOPE Scholarship, Student Courtesy Scholarship, Emory Merit Scholarships, and outside scholarships (such as government, corporate, or community agency funding). Scholarships listed under "Other Resources for Study Abroad" are administered by outside institutions.

Loans: Are available from various sources, including federal and state governments, the University, and private lenders. Students must pay back student loans. Types of loans include: Federal Perkins Loans, Federal Subsidized Stafford Loan, Unsubsidized Stafford Loan, and Federal PLUS Loans.

National Security Education Program David L. Boren Scholarship

The merit based Boren Scholarships are designed to strengthen national security by providing opportunities for students to study cultures and languages important to U.S. national security. The NSEP expands international educational opportunities for U.S. students, particularly those who may have little or no previous experience overseas and who may need financial assistance to participate in study abroad. NSEP requirements include selecting a program of study in all countries except for Western Europe, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand. The integrated study of foreign language is required for all proposals. All recipients of the award are required to complete a service component as part of the scholarship program.

The maximum award is $8,000 for summer, $10,000 for semester, and $20,000 for academic year.

A student interested in the Boren scholarship would need to combine one of Emory's summer programs with another summer program or combine the summer program with a fall semester study abroad in order to be eligible. Contact CIPA@emory.edu if questions regarding this scholarship.*
